The South Western Railways' pilot initiative to promote local artisans through a dedicated store for Channapatna toys is making money apart from drawing a good number of customers.

As part of the One Station One Product scheme, a dedicated store for Channapatna crafts was set up at Krantiveera Sangoli Rayanna (KSR) Railway Station a couple of weeks ago.

KSR is the first railway station in the state to have a store for Channapatna toys. The store was put on a trial run initially for a fortnight.

According to data provided by South Western Railway (SWR), the store is raking in good revenue. Toys and other crafts worth Rs 12,000-15,000 are being sold from the store daily. As of April 10, the store sold Channapatna crafts worth Rs 1,78,430.

"We have crossed a fortnight and SWR has provided us with an extension. We can sell all lines of products that we keep in the store. Currently, we are selling children's toys, educational items and show-pieces. We are bringing all these products from Minister for rural development KS Eshwarappa who was in thick of storm over a contractor's suicide has announced he will resign from the state cabinet. He is likely to hand over the resignation to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday in Bengaluru. An emotional Eshwarappa in a press conference Thursday evening announced his decision to resign thereby becoming the first minister in Bommai's ministry to quit.

The announcement comes a day after Eshwarappa was named in the FIR registered in connection with the death of Santosh K Patil, who had accused the former of corruption. Addressing the press meet in Shivamogga, Eshwarappa said, "I have served as the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj minister in the Karnataka government. I have taken a decision today to resign from my ministerial position."

He further said he would tender his resignation letter to Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday. Meanwhile, the opposition Congress stepped up its attack demanding Eshwarappa's arrest as the next step.

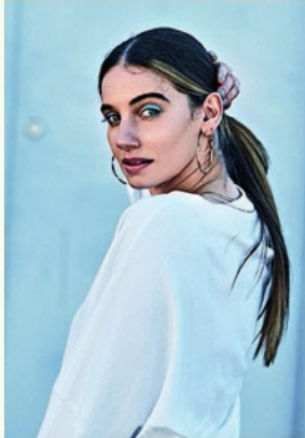

A source said the BJP central leadership had conveyed that Eshwarappa should quit so that the party doesn't face any embarrassment. However, Bommai clarified that Eshwarappa decided to resign on his own and there was no pressure from the party.

Advocating their love for the gentleman's game

Lawyers and advocates are going all out to participate in and win championships as part of their state advocates' cricket association

SS Shreekumar

TWEETS @BangaloreMIRROR

What started off as a way to break the monotony of work and enjoy a friendly game of cricket, has turned into a movement of sorts, with tournaments being organised and players vying for the cup. They are advocating the promotion of cricket in more ways than one. Advocates and lawyers who profess their love for the gentleman's game are no longer watching from the sidelines, but playing it too.

Such is the seriousness of the two professions uniting, that almost every state has an advocate cricket association and a cricket association of advocates in India.

The Karnataka Advocates Cricket Association is a registered team under the Karnataka State Cricket Association. Formed by Sundar GR way back in 1981, the team began playing in the III Division and was promoted in 1993 to the II Division. It is still in the same division and all the team members represent the Karnataka Advocates State team in the South India Advocates T20 cricket tournament and in the all-India event too.

Incidentally, Karnataka won the South India T20 tournament defeating Tamil Nadu by six runs in the final at the Sampradhi Sports Estadio on Tuesday.

"The initial idea was to form a team and provide an opportunity for our boys to come out on Sundays and holidays and refresh themselves.

But soon, everyone meant business and the passion for the game saw them competing seriously. We got the team registered with the KSCA as well," said founder Sundar on the sidelines of the SI T20 final. According to him, only registered practitioners can represent the team in the league or even in their own tournaments. We don't take 'guest players' as that will deny our own boys an opportunity to showcase their talent.

"The legal fraternity now not only has cricket tournaments going on but it has begun a separate cricket movement itself because it is widespread and involves almost all states. The all-India event is now more than three decades old.

"As we are all professionals and don't find time for regular practice and physical fitness routines, we decided that the all-India event will be played on a 35-over basis. Even now the format is 35 overs a side," said Shailesh, a former cricketer and a long-standing cricket administrator as well in Bengaluru.

"The legal fraternity has begun a cricket movement in itself involving almost all states"

"After the all-India tournament, we also have a World Cup tournament for advocates in the world. The last edition was held in New Zealand," said Shailesh, who is also a member of the National selection committee of the advocates cricket team.

This tournament has no bearing on any team playing there as this is not a qualification event. We are trying to advance the dates of the all-India tournament so that we can select a team and prepare well for the World Cup, he added.

"We lost to Tamil Nadu in Vijayawada in the first South India T20 event. But we defeated them this year. It was a very close match and all credit to them for putting up a great fight as also to my boys for turning out a fine performance," said Arvind Reddy, the Karnataka team skipper and the man behind the show.

"Hopefully, we should do well in the all-India tournament and perhaps a couple of our players could represent the Indian Advocates team in the World Cup," signed off Reddy in a chat with Bangalore Mirror after winning the trophy.

No end to flex woes

Two-wheeler rider sustains injuries after hanging banner falls on him

Illegal posters are back in the city. The life-size posters and flex boards installed in the city are becoming a growing menace for the commuters. Citizens continue to find these banners all over the streets, even after putting up banners and flex boards in the city was banned. The banners illegally installed across the city have caused many mishaps. A man riding a two-wheeler towards Varthur Kodi in Whitefield recently met with an accident. Namita Garg, who witnessed the entire incident, said, "The incident took place near Sigma tech Park. The man was coming on his bike from the opposite side. He was driving his vehicle perfectly. However, just when he was crossing the banners, one of them came loose and fell on him. He fell flat because of the road of the banner."

Since it was a busy road, Namita could not stop. However, she witnessed the rest of the incident from her rear-view mirror. "There was a truck just 50 meters behind him. He moved to safety before the situation turned worse, but he was seriously injured by the fall," she added.

The flashy colours of banners often distract commuters, leading to accidents

A lot of residents have also previously complained about the banner. Ashish K, a freelancer, said, "These banners on the road are extremely distracting. While I ride my bike or drive my car through the area, I keep getting distracted by these banners. Some of them are barely hanging. They can fall at any point on someone and cause major accidents. The authorities want to wait for a major accident to happen before they take some responsibility and remove these banners." Amitha Gowda, a resident of the area, said, "The banners are literally huge and

No one wants to go to their balcony just to see these banners hanging. The banners are completely pointless and unnecessary

— Amitha Gowda, Whitefield resident

some of them are even tattered. Ashish further added, "The banners are so huge that they block the view for residents. No one wants to go out onto their balcony just to see these banners hanging. These banners are completely pointless and unnecessary." The residents say that these banners spoil the ambience of their locality and pose a serious threat to commuters.

The flashy colours of the banners often distract the commuters. They say that despite these banners being banned, BBMP or even police have taken no action to make the city clear of banners.

Bangalore Mirror had earlier reported how despite the ban, banners and flexes continue to be installed across the city

Neelasandra village which is 6 km from Channarayana. For efficiency, some are manufactured in factories and some made by hand," said Balaji Prakash, owner of Balaji Handicrafts which received the tender for operating the stall.

He added the unique factor about these products is that all Channarayana products are made of wood from a Banyan tree and use vegetable colour. Children can play with the toys without fear of being infected and the wood won't shrink upon contact with water.

There is a greater demand for educational and show-piece items rather than the toys in the store, said the owner. The items range from as low as Rs 50 to as high as Rs 4,500. However, the most purchased products are in the mid-range segment.

"The intention was to promote local products from different parts of the country under the One Station

One Product scheme. The Railway Board permitted the opening of stalls in railway stations on a pilot basis. The pilot project has been extended twice until now. The full-fledged plan is yet to be unveiled. Currently, we are looking at the response from the artisans association from this initiative," senior DCM, Krishna Reddy told BM.

"During our Shramik specials, people were sad about having to move from cities to their native places. The Bengaluru division took the initiative under 'Put Back Smile' to distribute Channarayana toys sourced from artisans. This provided a new revenue stream for artisans who were stuck during the lockdown," he added.

Other attractions

In a new model of non-fare revenue generation, SWR is also experimenting with setting up gaming arcades inside the station with the first one established in the KSR station platform on a pilot basis. While the arcade is attracting customers with nominal prices for their wide range of entertainment services like VR, virtual tours, and racing, SWR is receiving around Rs 60,000 per month for permitting their business operations on railway premises.

"Railway is an interesting model for us. Many people are loitering in the station, trying to kill time. We are offering quality entertainment services at subsidised prices. While in a mall, the conversion rate is 30-40%, the conversion rate is almost more than double.

Our revenue is almost 60% now; we are getting calls from multiple government agencies to set up stalls on their premises. In 2-3 months, we will think about expansion," said the founder of Gamineazy Entertainment, Navin Rajendran.

In just 12 days, the arcade has started seeing a daily footfall of 200 people. The footfall comes in streams with the peak lying somewhere between 4 to 7 pm.

"We are yet to analyse footfall patterns. It could be due to delayed train services; we hope to understand the pattern after crossing a month," he added.

He further added that the arcade is seeing people coming from outside the platforms to visit the facility too. With one of the entrances on the non-platform side, people can easily visit the facility without taking a platform ticket.

Being a tight space, currently, the facility only accommodates up to 11-12 people at a stretch but the company is still wondering how to manage the full strength of the railway station.

"Gamineazy is a unique venture in a city station where people can spend time on entertainment while waiting for trains. It's also a good model for non-fare revenue generation. SWR is raking in around Rs 60,000-70,000 per month from this model," added Reddy.

Cycle enthusiasts in an around Yelahanka have something to cheer about. The Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) has built a one-of-a-kind cycle track near the Savarkar flyover and also built an elevated pathway for residents along its side.

The cycle track is made at a stretch of 410 metres and the sides of the walls have been covered in artworks. LED lights have been installed across the stretch for the safety of cyclists during the night.

Three days ago, the cycle track was inaugurated by BBMP officials and Yelahanka MLA SR Vishwanath. The cost of the project was Rs 2 crore and in the second phase, another 400-plus metre extension of the track will be built, making it close to a one-kilometre stretch.

BBMP Executive Engineer, Sudhakar, Yelahanka division said, "The place was filled with construction debris and garbage would also be dumped at times. We wanted to revamp the place and do something for the public. Hence a plan was made to convert it to a cycle track. Six months back, we started the project and now, there is cycle track and a walking pathway along with it."

That's not all, however. BBMP will add more greenery to the place to make it look even more appealing. The cycle track will be maintained everyday so that no sand or silt gets accumulated and it allows free movement for the cyclists.

Vishwanath said, "We are looking at bringing in many more projects which would benefit the public. The cycle track can help the children and adults to keep fit. The lights installed will help in the safety of one during the nights. They were designed and made to order to add a fancy and colourful look."

The residents have been cheering about the new cycle track. "The cycle track looks beautiful. It will benefit many residents across the locality. The BBMP recently made a badminton club for the citizens and many well-maintained parks are also in and around the locality," said Manjunath Gowda, resident of Yelahanka, adding that many children are excited to cycle on the track while adults have a large space to walk on the pathway.

Electric buses: BMTC's white elephant?

The Bangalore Metropolitan Transport Corporation (BMTC), which has been reeling under a financial crisis for a while, is now being burdened by electric buses, which are draining its coffers instead of generating revenue.

BMTC had leased 90 electric buses by NTPC Vidyut Vyapar Nigam Ltd after receiving funds from Bengaluru Smart City Limited. Currently, BMTC is paying Rs 51.67 per km. But these buses are not generating enough revenue to balance that number. While approximately 90 buses were supposed to be rolled out, due to a lack of charging facilities, the operations did not start at full capacity. BMTC decided to operate 30 buses from KR Puram, Yeswanthpur, and Kengeri depots.

As per the agreement, electric buses must cover 180 km daily. BMTC has to pay Rs 9,300 per bus for 180 km per day. The buses currently operating are covering 173 km on average per day. The collection from electric buses per km is only Rs 30, which comes to a loss of Rs 21 per km. By operating around 26 buses, BMTC has lost more than one lakh. Now, due to the losses, BMTC has submitted a proposal for an increase of 47 per cent in ticket prices.

A fleet of e-buses rolled out by BMTC

This decision may not go down well with citizens.

Earlier, there were 52 lakh daily commuters availing of BMTC's services. Now due to online taxi services and Metro, the number has dropped to 32 lakh. Covid-19 only worsened the situation.

Such is the financial drain that BMTC is facing difficulty in paying salaries, buying spare parts and fuel providers. It is pledging the buildings to overcome financial difficulties.

BMTC Vice President Dr MR Venkatesh said, "NTPC supplied 90 electric buses; among them, only 26 buses are operating. In the next three months, 390 electric buses will be operational."

Your 2nd PU doubts cleared

Experts answer questions of PU students and their parents to help them combat exam blues

I Melvin Mathew
c-melvin.mathew@timesgroup.com

TWEETS @BangaloreMIRROR

The II PU exams are fast approaching. As last year's exams were cancelled due to the covid pandemic, there will be full-fledged offline exams this year. To help the student community beat the exam blues, an expert panel drawn from various PU streams answered a host of questions raised by Bangalore Mirror readers. An expert panel of G M Ganachari (Assistant Director, Department Of Pre University Education, Dr N Prabhakar, (Senior lecturer and resource person and author, Govt PU college for Girls, Basavangudi), Mahabaleshwara Tunga (Principal, Soundarya Composite PU College, Havanur Layout) and Ananth Kumar (Prof Mathematics, BEL college, Jalahalli) answered the readers' questions. Here are excerpts from the programme.

Why was the timetable revised multiple times?

We were forced to revise the PU timetable as the time table for JEE and NEET kept changing. We had to revise our calendar of exams accordingly so that students don't face inconvenience. The PU department wishes to clarify that the recent time table issued will be the final one and there will be no further changes.

Why can't the PU department make teaching effective and avoid PU coaching centres?

Coaching might not be avoided, but students should try to utilise the expertise of experienced teachers and should consult them directly to solve study-related problems.

Will there be NEP for PU?

The State Government is planning to introduce NEP in a phased manner. The policy will be introduced in phases to cover pre-LKG- 12th standard. Decisions will be taken as per the recommendations of the Task Force.

Are there any alternative study techniques for slow learners of Mathematics?

In competitive exams, to solve complicated questions, students should be comfortable with formulae and at applying them. During holidays, students should work on formulae learnt in previous classes.

When is the right time to practise Mathematics?

Students should try to study during the morning and whenever they are bored, they should try solving mathematical problems to jog up the brain. However, with 10 days left for the exams, there is no need for students to adopt new techniques. They should continue with their techniques and perfect their methods.

What is the right method to write exams?

During the 10-15 minutes provided for students to read the question paper, students should assess the questions that seem easier to them. Any remaining time should be spent attempting extra questions. Students should attempt easier questions first followed by difficult ones.

An expert panel drawn from various PU streams answered a host of questions raised by BM readers. (In inset; from left: G M Ganachari (Assistant Director, Department of Pre University Education), Ananth Kumar, (Prof of Mathematics, BEL College), Dr N Prabhakar (Senior lecturer, Govt PU College for Girls, Basavangudi) and Mahabaleshwara Tunga (Principal, Soundarya composite PU College)

How is students' knowledge assessed while reading answer sheets?

When we read the first three pages, we can conclude about the knowledge of the student. Their way of writing, way of thinking and style of presentation can be used to make this assessment.

Do students get more marks for answering additional questions?

No. Students are advised not to do trial and error in the beginning and attempt all the easy answers first. If there is extra time left, they should attempt the extra questions.

KEEP CALM, EXAMS ON

What can students do to impress the evaluators?

There is no question of impressing evaluators. If they write only the final answer without showing the steps, they won't get 3-4 marks. But if students mess up a few questions in the beginning and perform well for the rest, the rest of the answers will be awarded full marks. Students should try to attempt one question per section before moving to the second set of questions.

Are students awarded more marks for covering more pages?

For a 10-mark question, the answer should be completed within 30-40 sentences. All question papers have four parts – understanding, knowledge, applications and skill. The first part assesses the understanding element and can be answered by all students, the second part checks the understanding, knowledge and applications of students for above-average students and the fourth part is for the skill part, which is meant to assess above-average students. The question paper has been built to assess all types of students.

Is the blueprint followed while setting the question paper?

Before setting the question paper, we need to make a blueprint. Then, we can proceed to prepare the question paper based on the guidelines of the PU board. Blueprint and weightage of chapters are taught to all students. The PU department has provided the weightage for all the chapters. According to that question papers are prepared and we cannot change anything, including the placement of the questions in previous question papers.

Can you mention some tips to score high in commerce subjects?

In Accountancy, students are given the weightage of questions and chapters and if they practice well, they can score 100 marks. In Business Studies, questions are designed as per a blueprint consisting of 1 mark, 2 mark, 4 mark and 8 mark, and practical-oriented questions for 5 marks. In Accountancy, the question paper itself has the answers. Students should simply focus on calculation, concentration and common sense to score high.

What steps can students take to keep calm during exam times?

Yoga, meditation and any spiritual practices can help calm students. Students should focus on their preparation based on the blueprint and lay focus on the chapter they love more. For 10 minutes, students should meditate on what they have learnt rather than being confused about new techniques.

Last-min prep

Maths labs may be a reality soon?

In the forthcoming days, Maths lab and practicals may be a reality. All Science subjects except Mathematics are practical and there is a possibility to demonstrate every Maths problem visually. For example, to demonstrate Maxima and Minima, teachers can use graph sheets, cello tape, wires and cutters. "This will be very effective in teaching. This will be highly beneficial for students, especially slow learners, who will be able to visualise the abstract and develop a better understanding. NCERT has also considered Maths labs and practicals. We are looking into implementing it into PU as well. Currently, there is a lot of work remaining left toward implementing it. Demonstrations have been conducted to assess the feasibility of this exercise."

How can students manage time in the exam hall?

Time utilisation depends on the preparation of the student. In a Mathematics paper, there are 69 questions. Ideally, one mark questions should be attempted at one min per question, two-mark questions should be attempted within 20 mins, 3-mark questions should be completed within 3-4 mins per question, 5 marks questions should be completed in 5 mins per question. Later they can go to four marks and six marks questions and complete within 1.5 hours. The remaining half an hour can be used in revising the paper.

What are avoidable common errors made by students?

Students should write the correct question numbers. We have many examples where students forget to write the question number in the answer. In such cases, we cannot evaluate. Many students forget to write their registration number. Many students even try to attempt all questions and end up losing time. Another big mistake students make is to leave blank pages in between and then write the answers later. Students are advised not to continue with practice as invigilators sometimes mistakenly put an end seal on these blank pages and the remaining answers might not get evaluated. The end seal is a procedure that has been a practice for two years.

How should students prepare in the last 10 days?

Students cannot prepare anything fresh now and they can only glance through what they have learnt. They have to find topics they are confident in and topics that are weak for them. For Mathematics, students should practise the previous year's question papers. They should solve all model question papers. The students should also focus on maintaining good health and get at least 5-6 hours of sound sleep.

Pets trapped in sealed shut house are free

Bank officials go by the book, seal house, refuse to allow owner to take her pets from inside; cops break open window, get animals out

Bangalore Mirror Bureau

TWEETS @BangaloreMIRROR

The west division police on Thursday had to break into a locked house in Rajarajeshwarinagar to rescue pets that were confined inside after the house was sealed by a bank as the owner had defaulted on repayment of home loan dues. A city-based doctor and a resident of Rajarajeshwarinagar, Priyadarshini, owner of the property, told Bangalore Mirror that the bank officials were aware that the pets were inside the house when they were officially sealing her house.

Dr Priyadarshini said the locked house had two Persian cats, two tortoises and a big aquarium placed in the centre of the hall.

Dr Priyadarshini had defaulted on repayment of her home loan due to the financial crisis owing to the pandemic, and the bank officials took the legal course after they served her with notices and granted her time to repay the loans. On Wednesday morning, when the bank officials had come to confiscate and seal her house, she was attending a hearing at the High Court. By the time she got to know that the bank officials had come to the house, she rushed back to her house and pleaded with them to allow her to take her belongings and her pets. She had told the bank officials that her cats, tortoises and fish had not been properly fed since last weekend as she had to run around for arranging money from the start of the week.

The bank officials are said to have been indifferent to her pleas and continued to seal the house following the bank procedures and other formalities.

Dr Priyadarshini then approached a member from the Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) Cell Arun Prasad and described her plight. Prasad contacted the bank to explain to them that they were committing an offence under Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (PCA) Act, but the officials did not budge.

Prasad then contacted the Deputy Commissioner of Police (DCP), West Division and explained the situation. The DCP instructed the Station House Officer (SHO) to rescue all the pet animals from the sealed house at the earliest. On Thursday, a team of police headed by a police sub-inspector had gone to the sealed house and summoned the bank officials asking them to come with the house keys. The bank officials came to the spot, but they had not brought the keys, telling the cops that it was due to a bank procedure.

The cops, after informing their seniors, broke open into a window of the sealed house and rescued the pets. "A cat, a tortoise and the fish in the aquarium have been rescued. My other Persian cat and a tortoise have gone missing," Dr Priyadarshini told Bangalore Mirror. The rescue operation by the cops happened in front of the bank officials.

Two airports in the State have now become specially-abled compliant airports. The Belagavi and Hubballi airports are now equipped with ambulifts. These ambulifts will facilitate flyers with reduced mobility.

These airports are under the Airports Authority of India (AAI). The AAI has now procured ambulifts for these airports which are having scheduled flight operations of Code C & other advanced level aircraft but does not have aerobridge facilities. The ambulift has been manufactured indigenously under the 'Make in India' policy.

AAI officials said that this facility has been equipped at 14 airports including Dehradun, Gorakhpur, Patna, Bagdogra, Darbhanga, Imphal, Vijayawada, Port Blair, Jodhpur, Belagavi, Silchar, Jharsuguda, Rajkot, Hubballi while it will be operational shortly at Dimapur, Jorhat, Leh, Jamnagar, Bhuj and Kanpur airports by the end of this month.

Royal Dutch carrier KLM has announced the resumption of its flight services on the Bengaluru-Amsterdam route from May 25. KLM had temporarily stopped operating its services to India after the Central government suspended all scheduled international flights from and to India, in late March 2020, in the wake of the pandemic. Starting from May 25, KLM will operate three flights per week from Bengaluru to Amsterdam. The Ethiopian Airlines has also announced the resumption of thrice weekly passenger flights to Bengaluru. The airline announced the recommencement of after it halted operations for two years due to the pandemic. Ethiopian operated its first flight services to Bengaluru in October 2019. Cylinder thieves nabbed

With the price of commercial cylinders sky-rocketing, a few conmen in the city decided to cheat a gas agency and make away with some of the precious cylinders to sell them in black and make a killing, the city police said on Thursday. The Sampigehalli police, on Thursday, arrested three persons and recovered 100 commercial cylinders worth Rs 6 lakh which they had taken away from a gas agency on the pretext of buying them. The accused Suhail Ahmed (34), Syed Jaif Pasha, (20) and Ganesh, (31) approached a private agency seeking to buy 100 cylinders for a programme they said they were organising. They paid an advance amount to take the delivery and assured to return the empty cylinders and the remaining amount after the programme.

However as soon as the cylinders were delivered, the accused escaped and even switched off their phones. Based on a complaint from the manager of the gas agency, the police tracked down the accused, arrested them and recovered the cylinders, an auto-rickshaw and a goods van used by the accused for the crime.

Woman killed in accident

A 26-year-old woman was killed and her elder brother riding the scooter sustained injuries after their vehicle was knocked down by a speeding truck in Kumaraswamy Layout on Wednesday evening. The deceased has been identified as Shabrin Taj and injured victim Shiekh Hussain (30). According to the police, the duo are residents of Kengeri Satellite town and were heading to visit their relatives on a scooter. While the duo reached the 100 feet road bridge, a speeding truck in a bid to overtake them, knocked down their scooter. As a result, Shabrin Taj lost her balance and came under the moving truck wheels and was crushed to death on the spot, the police said. Hussain, riding the bike, fell on the other side of the road and sustained injuries.

The numbers in the grey squares refer to the sums of the digits that you must fill into the empty spaces directly below or to the right of the grey square containing the number. For instance, in the given example, the 3 boxes horizontally next to 15 must contain 3 digits that add up to 15, whereas for 9, it is the 2 boxes placed vertically under it that must add up to 9. No zeros are used here, only the digits 1 through 9.

Note: A digit cannot appear more than once in any particular digit combination. For instance, in the example, we cannot have the combination of 4+7+4 for 15.

Rules

» Connect adjacent dots with vertical or horizontal lines, creating a single loop (Fig A). » Crossovers or branches are not allowed (As shown by dotted lines in Fig B). » Numbers in the puzzle indicate the number of lines that should surround it, while empty cells may be surrounded by any number of lines. » You can't draw lines around zeros. » Each puzzle has just one unique solution.

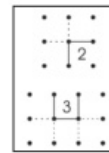

How to begin:

Example (Fig A) - Begin with the zero next to 3. Since no lines can be drawn around zero, mark crosses around it, as shown. Now there is a cross in one space around 3. So we know the three lines of 3 can only be drawn in the remaining three spaces. Next, these lines can only be extended in one direction each. Continue, using the same logic.

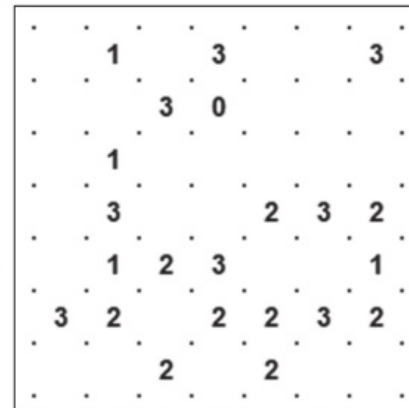

Hints: Keep eliminating possibilities by marking crosses in spaces between dots where a line isn't possible, i.e., if you have already completed required lines or where a line extension may create a branch or cause a dead-end (Fig B)

Just married

Ranbir-Alia tie the knot, pose for pictures

Bollywood A-listers Alia Bhatt and Ranbir Kapoor got married on Thursday, not in a big fat Indian wedding spangled with tinsel as many would have imagined but at their Bandra apartment with just family and close friends in attendance.

Bhatt, 29, posted a series of loved-up pictures with Ranbir, 39, on Instagram post the wedding to announce that they had tied the knot in their balcony after dating for five years. "Today, surrounded by our family and friends, at home... in our favourite spot - the balcony we've spent the last 5 years of our relationship - we got married. With so much already behind us, we can't wait to build more memories together... memories that are full of love, laughter, comfortable silences, movie nights, silly fights, wine delights and Chinese bites.

"Thank you for all the love and light during this very momentous time in our lives. It has made this moment all the more special," the caption by Ranbir and Alia, read.

Alia and Ranbir matched the colour of their wedding outfits in ivory and gold: lehenga and matching kundan jewellery for the bride and sherwani for the groom from Bollywood's go-to wedding designer Sabyasachi Mukherjee.

After keeping the media personnel and fans stationed outside 'Vastu' waiting, the couple arrived for the much promised photo op at around 7.40 pm.
